

A story to be shared continues

Do you remember that a year ago we send you an article named "A story to be shared" which started like this: "Approximately a year ago we began a Project together with the Portalón Primary School; the creation o an ecological club made up of children of the community with the purpose of promoting in them the conservation"

Part of that story was also "Today thanks to God we see the trust we deposited in them, the children of the Ecological Club Los Tucanes obtained the award of the "Ecological Blue Flag with reference of one star" in a national level contest"

Well, this picture will help you to bring the memory Back!!!

Today the title of the story is: A story to be shared continues and this is because the kids for a second year won the national contest, this time they got THREE BLUE STARS. Amazing no???.!!!!

Portasol says a very sincere CONGRATULATIONS to all and to each kid, CONGRATULATIONS to the teachers, CONGRATULATIONS to the parents and a very special CONGRATULATIONS to Henry Chaves, the biologist leading the Ecological Club Los Tucanes.

Some of the projects which the group of children submitted were:

- Water Racional Use Campaign
- Club Ecológico Los Tucanes Spreading Program
 - Manuel Antonio National Park 35th Anniversary
- Environmental Education Program
 - Visit to NAgal Community in Puerto Viejo-Sarapiquí
 - Visit to Poás Volcano

The project impressed positively the judges. So, Costa Rican Aqueduct and Sewer System Institution (A y A) recognized the effort and prized it.

The following pictures illustrate the special moment.

The award ceremony took place in Puntarenas on Tuesday 25th March, 2008 and now we will see the blue flag with three stars waving in the school.
